Attorneys must notify the Board of Bar Examiners, in writing, within 90 days of any termination of eligible employment. With the notification, the attorney must indicate if they are extending their license.

An attorney that fails to notify the Board of Bar Examiners of termination within 90 days will forfeit the option to extend their license, and their license will be expired immediately upon notification

As of June 3, 2009, attorneys that leave eligible employment as In-House Counsel and notify the Board of Bar Examiners within 90 days of termination have two options:

1. Make a written request with their termination notification to extend the license for one year. The attorney will be responsible for maintaining all other aspects of active licensure during the extension, including MCLE requirements, any assessments billed by the Lawyers Fund for Client Protection, and maintaining 'Good Standing' status in every jurisdiction he/she is admitted.

If evidence of eligible employment is not provided within 365 days of employment termination date, the license will expire. If the attorney obtains eligible employment after their license has expired, an entirely new application must be filed.

2. If an attorney chooses to, he/she can allow their license to expire pursuant to the previously established ninety day time period. The attorney would not be responsible for any future assessments or continuing education; however, if the attorney finds eligible employment as In-House Counsel after the ninety day period, the attorney will be required to reapply for the license. Depending on reporting cycles, the attorney may be responsible for certifying completion of CLEs while he/she was admitted, even after the license has expired. To do so, the attorney MUST contact the Board on Continuing Legal Education at (609) 815-2930 or sctcle.mailbox@judiciary.state.nj.us

In either case, if the attorney obtains new employment and wishes to transfer the existing license to the new employer, the Board of Bar Examiners must be notified of the new eligible employment prior to the expiration of the attorney's license via completion of the "Change of Employer" forms, located on www.njbarexams.org, In-House Counsel forms menu.. If notification is not received prior to the end of the time limit (1 year or 90 days, respectively), the license will expire immediately.

Notifications of new employment that are received after license expiration will be returned (even if employment commenced prior to the expiration). The attorney then must reapply for the license, and pay all applicable fees.
